STREET IMPROVEMENTS.

Taking a glance back over the last twenty months past we shall see and realize that Honolulu has made some advancement in the condition of her thoroughfares. We have no wish to intimate that our streets are anywhere near what they should be and what we entertain the hope they will be sometime in the future; but every candid man must admit that they have in a measure progressed in that direction. With the best of management and the wisest use of all the money that can possibly be spared from the public revenue for public works in the capital city of the kingdom, some years must elapse before the condition of our public highways can reach the ideal realized in many cities elsewhere. Although many of us may be impatient to see every street in the city just exactly as we think it should be, we must, in calm reflection, see that the town has taken a few steps that way. In this writing we call to mind, and instance, Bethel street; Merchant street, from Fort street to the Government house; Punchbowl street, between King and Beretania streets; Alakea street; portions of Nuuanu street, and portions of King street. We may not, and in fact do not, believe that either the most serviceable grading or the most scientific method of construction, has been followed in all the examples quoted; but in each and every street referred to there has been a decided improvement, and they are all in a better state for travel than they were.

It may be appropriately suggested, in concluding, that the streets which have been thoroughly macadamised should be kept in repair, and not allowed to relapse into their former condition. "A stitch in time saves nine." A very little attention and money will keep them as they now are for years to come, but one year's neglect will efface the good that has been done.

TRAMCARS ON FORT STREET.

During yesterday and to-day we have heard considerable talk on Fort street against the track for the tramcars being laid along that street. Some think, so they say, that the street is so narrow that there is not room on it for the tramcars and the private carriages that usually frequent it.

One tradesman said that the only objection he had was, that his customers would not be able to keep their carriages in front of his shop, and sit in them while his clerks took and filled their orders. Really, this seems to us a stupid and shortsighted objection. It must certainly entail on the tradesman additional work and cause him some annoyance to be compelled to wait on his customers in the street, instead of their coming into his store and being waited on in the regular and legitimate way. One would think that anything which would necessitate customers coming inside, instead of being served in the street, would be hailed with welcome.

One remarkable feature about the objection to the tramway passing through Fort street, is that the objectors, or most of them, a few months ago signed a document expressive of a desire that that street should be included in the system. What has occurred to produce this change in their views and wishes? Has the street grown narrower since the signing of that document, or what?

We are not interested a five-cent piece whether the tramcars traverse Fort street or not, but if our business were on that street we certainly should want the cars to go that way, believing that streets which without the cars are handicapped by those which have them. If Alakea street, next to Fort street and running parallel with it, has tramcars regularly traversing it, and the other has not, Alakea, as a business street, is bound to rise, to the detriment of Fort street.

"FOUL PLAY" RATHER.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—The wise man said that he that meddles with matters not belonging to him is like one that takes a dog by the ears. Nevertheless, and as I have been "game" enough before now to have taken several curs by the legs, I am going to interfere, your editorial excellency permitting, in a matter whose intrinsic merits scarcely concern me sufficiently to keep me lying awake nights. You had "A voice from Maui" on Monday, signed by "N. G." It was careful in statement of reports coming to its writer's ears, giving such for what they were worth. It was precise in its utterance of opinions. It was replete with interesting news regarding goings on upon the island where written. It was mainly in holding out a warning signal to a section of the community which, if the reports given currency to had any foundation, is menaced by the sedulous craft of a rival section—or, in other words, put on the defensive while peacefully following their own ways. Moreover, the letter in question voiced what I have no doubt is the opinion of the most enlightened and liberal minds of the day, in declaring the religious indulgence lately promulgated to all the sects by the Board of Education to be practically nothing better than a firebrand amongst dry stubble.

Now on Tuesday a correspondent of yours, falsely assuming the colors of "Fair Play," undertakes to pour forth upon the head of "N. G." a stream of unfair abuse and vilification. False to his nom de plume, this writer virtually takes for granted that only one division of the Christian Church has any right to stand up for itself if put at a disadvantage by civil interference. He unjustly charges "N. G." with narrow-minded bigotry, when the whole tenor of that writer's letter was the sentiment of "a fair field and no favor" for all denominations. This is proved, as well as his liberality of thought, in "N. G.'s" sentence, "The Sunday schools are good and everybody is in favor of them, be they Catholic or Protestant." In other words, there is a time for religious teaching of the young, as for everything else, but it is not the time that children of differing sects are gathered for state-supported instruction in the practical knowledge to fit them for the hurly-burly of life's struggle for subsistence. Change the signatures of the two letters and matters will be adjusted to my satisfaction. Put "Fair Play" to the Maui "voice" and "No Good" to its reply, and the fitness of things will be established. I disagree with many of the leading tenets of most Protestants, as well as with the doctrines that have always made the Catholic Church a thorn in the side of legitimate statesmanship. I only interfere in this case because, before a reply can come from Maui, the subject will be stale. All the faults that "Fair Play" charges to "N. G." are being emphatically to his own production. CHIVALRY.

HILO AND ITS NEEDS, NO. 2.

(From The Hilo Record.)

In our last we treated of those needs which we believe ought to be supplied by the general government, as soon as practicable. We now come to speak of one or two things that we ought to supply ourselves. The landing of twenty or more tourists at one time on our wharf, last Sunday morning, shows the great want that now exists in our town, of a place where such parties can be accommodated, and cared for. Our townsmen, however, rose to the occasion, and our visitors had no reason to complain of the way they were treated, nor did they; but on the other hand expressed themselves with thankfulness as to the kindness of the Hilo people. But as much as our people may desire to have our visitors leave Hilo with only the most favorable opinions of the place it cannot be expected that they can forever open their doors for their accommodation. In order to induce tourists to visit us we must be prepared to give them suitable Hotel accommodations, the accommodation must precede the travel. If Hilo ever expects to induce tourists to visit here. It must forthwith furnish proper accommodations for them. Travellers always ask first, can we be accommodated there? There is no reason why some of our many large houses, now standing empty, should not be used as a hotel. All it needs, is for some one to take hold of the matter in earnest and put it through. Can anyone be induced to give it a trial?

Again Hilo needs a town hall, which could also accommodate a public library, in connection with a reading room. If we had town hall, there is but little doubt, but that we would often have public entertainments, than we now do. It has been suggested that the Hilo public purchase the Mill's lot on the corner of Church and Volcano streets for that purpose. It could probably be got from the heirs, for a reasonable figure, and would make a good site for such a building. Of course at present the community could not erect a building, such as we need, but by commencing now, and working the thing up, it would not be a great while before we could commence on it. If we had a good reading room, with all the latest papers and magazines on its shelves a large proportion of our townspeople who have not many places to go would spend their evening there; such a place of resort would be of the greatest benefit to our town, and as such, ought to be looked into, and steps taken to start it. There are many other things that we would like to bring to the attention of the Hilo public, but the above we think are enough for the present.

HILO NEWS.

INTERESTING BUDGET OF NEWS FROM THE HILO RECORD.

The Honolulu plantation has been forced to shut down for a week, for the want of water, and the Hakala plantation was only grinding at one of their mills for the same reason.

On Sunday, the 17th inst., Mr. Napier of Waikaka, fell from his horse and was considerably hurt about the shoulders and feet. The accident happened while he was trying to get off his horse while he was in motion. His coat caught and Mr. Napier was thrown violently to the ground.

Mr. D. H. Hitchcock raised a hog which, on being dressed weighed 335 pounds.

The following bids for repairs and painting the Court-house have been accepted: Repairs, Mr. Vanetta, $115; Painting, Evaliko, $220. The Government has refused to let the prisoners work on the Volcano road.

Fires have been raging all over the country during the week ending March 26th. On the 20th the cinders from fires burning in Puna, fell all over Hilo. The fire on Manakua mentioned some weeks ago, is still burning and destroying much valuable timber.

From Kona it is learned that the Deputy Sheriff, with one or two men, made a descent on a house there, where a leper lived. He met them with fire-arms and tried to shoot the Deputy, but the ball missed him and he made a rush and caught the man before he could fire again. They found his house a perfect arsenal. The leper was put in irons and is now in the leper house in Kona, awaiting transportation to Honolulu. His friends are very violent and openly threaten the Deputy Sheriff's life.

A little German girl at the Puka-ranch, being chased by a vicious cow, fell over a rock and broke her jaw, and had several teeth knocked out. She escaped from the cow however.

A BOLD ROBBERY. On Thursday evening, March 21, between 10 and 12 o'clock, the office of the Hilo Sugar Company at Wainuku, was entered through one of the windows by two men, who rolled the small safe containing the money used for paying off the plantation hands, out of doors and tumbling it down the gulch, Hamakua side of the office. At the bottom it was broken open and the money it contained, about $900, was taken. The papers in the safe were left. Suspicion pointed towards a Fiji living at Pepeekeo, and on being arrested confessed to the burglary. The gold $210 was found on his person; the silver $650.39, he hid in the Honolulu gulch. On his way in from Pepeekeo he pointed out the exact spot where the money was hid. It was found and brought to town with the prisoner.

Every man is the architect of his own fortune. And it's lucky for most of us that there's no building inspector around.

Wife (reading morning paper)—Why, the Mormons actually still claim the right of having two, three and sometimes four wives at once. Husband—Why, at that rate, how can a man ever hope to be a widower?—[Time.]
